RE: Letter of Support for Zoe's Club

To whom it may concern:

Ms. Conover has been involved with the college for many years. As a previous employee, her focus was on assisting students in making sound financial decisions regarding their college education. In her role with the Ozark Federal Credit Union, she has continued to be an integral part of the student financial education effort.

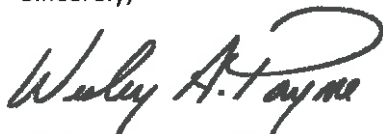

Three Rivers College works to equip our students not only with education but also with life skills, financial savviness, interview skills and those needed to remain on the job. While our audience may differ, our goals and efforts parallel those in Zoe Finds a Job.

The Ozark Federal Credit Union and Davine Conover have been friends of the College in many ways over the years, including coming into our locations and offering various workshops to teach these skills to our students. We are proud to endorse this book to help teach young people about financial literacy.

Davine has a heart and passion for what she does, and this book is a reflection of her commitment to teaching financial literacy to all ages. Introducing it to children at a young age will make our job easier to continue to reinforce the values and lessons that Zoe teaches.

I strongly recommend this book for any community that wants to invest in the lives of their young people and future workforce.

Sincerely;

Wesley A. Payne, Ph.D.
